

SCENES IN DUBLIN
DURING THE SINN FEIN REBELLION

British troops advancing behind a movable barricade of household furniture. As the snipers were cleared out of a section the barricade was pushed forward.

SOLDIERS FIRING FROM A DANGEROUSLY EXPOSED POSITION. THEY ARE PICKING OFF SNIPERS AT THE HEAD OF A BRIDGE OVER THE GRAND CANAL.

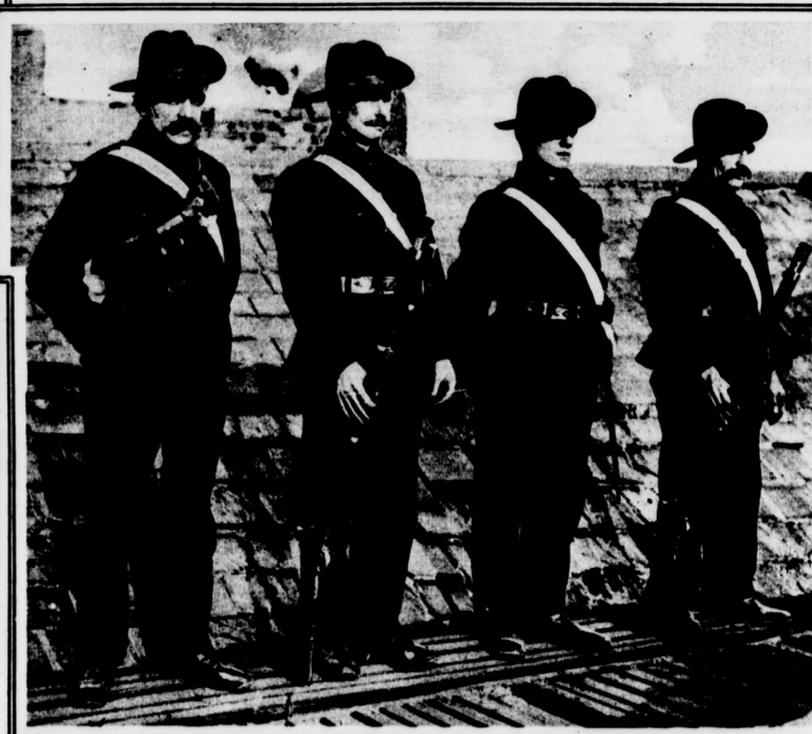

The west side of Sackville street, showing the ruins of the General Post Office, which the rebels captured and held until it was destroyed by shell fire.

A BRITISH MACHINE GUN SECTION SUPPORTED BY RIFLEMEN FIGHTING THE REBELS FROM BEHIND A HASTILY CONSTRUCTED BARRICADE IN THE SOUTH DUBLIN AREA.

THE BREAKDOWN OF THE REBELLION. THE FIRST CONTINGENT OF SINN FEIN REBELS BEING MARCHED UNDER GUARD TO JAIL AT KNUTSFORD, ENGLAND.

FOUR OF THE REBELS, WHO MAY SINCE HAVE BEEN EXECUTED, IN THE UNIFORM OF THE "IRISH CITIZEN ARMY." THIS UNIQUE PHOTOGRAPH WAS TAKEN BY A REBEL PHOTOGRAPHER ON THE ROOF OF LIBERTY HALL, THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY.
